About the University

Bhagat Phool Singh Mahila Vishwavidyalaya (BPSMV) is the first State Women University of North India, established by the Government of Haryana in August 2006. It is a historical institution of women education because of its glorious past of 77 years. The university's genesis goes back to 1936 when the legendary social worker Bhagat Phool Singh established a Kanya Gurukul with just 03 girls at Khanpur Kalan.

Today driven by its vision of 'women empowerment through education' BPSMV is the 'University with a Difference'. Besides offering job oriented programmes in arts, science, education, engineering, commerce and ayurveda streams, the university has for the first time in the country linked education with societal development through community engagement. The curriculum prescribed is integrated with the practicum engaging surrounding society. In order to institutionalize our commitment of social responsibility, BPSMV has established unique centers like Centre for Society-University Interface and Research (CSUIR), Centre for Indic-Asian Studies (CIAS), Learning Resource Centre (LRC) etc. These centers conceptualize, implement and consolidate the programmes and low cost people friendly discoveries based on Indian knowledge systems which are helpful in social mobilization and growth.

The University has marked its presence on international level too by signing MOUs with the Universities of universities of Baltimore (USA), Nottingham Trent (UK), St. Catherine (USA), Kwangwoon in South Korea. As a result faculty and students from both sides benefit a lot.

BPSMV, spread over lush green, pollution free 500 acres of land with approximately 7000 girls on its rolls is a unique model of holistic education, providing education from KG till PhD level, juxtaposing tradition with modernity.

About the Society

The Society of Statistics, Computer and Applications was founded in 1997 at Jat Vedic College, Baraut. The main objective of the Society is to popularize applications of statistical methodologies in different sciences and to provide incentives for developing indigenous computer software to help application activities in different technological areas. A major activity of the society is to publish a journal called “Statistics and Applications,” besides arranging annual conferences in different parts of the country.
